1. General Kowalski (Voivode of Silesia) comes from the Dabrowa industrial basin. He was General Berling's deputy for political matters in the 1st Polish Army in the USSR. He is described by persons who know him well and by his collaborators in the administration and industry as an intelligent and capable man, a good administrator, and an excellent speaker. In political matters he acts openly as a member of the PPR.
2. Colonel Sieniek (Deputy Voivode) comes from Silesia and is said to be a good administrator. His sympathies are said to be with the West.
